PROTECTION FOR FARMER SOUGHT IN TARIFF BILL

SENATE TO PUT AMENDMENTS TO HOUSE MEASURE

"Republican Tariff Bloc" Swings Into Action On Farmer's Behalf

TEST OF STRENGTH

First Indication to Come Monday With Vote OnCaster Oil.

Washington, May 15.—The farmer came into his own in the senate today when the "Republican tariff bloc" swung into action on behalf of favorable farm duties in the new permanent tariff bill.

A long series of amendments to the house tariff bill, numbering several hundred in all, are backed by the "bloc" as tariff legislation necessary for putting the farmer "on his feet." In the "bloc's" program are high protective duties on grains, cattle, cotton, fruits and vegetables and their derivatives.

Led by Senator Gooding, Republican of Idaho, members of the "bloc" were confident today they would command sufficient votes to insure passage of all tariffs which they had endorsed. "The tariff bloc's" fight on behalf of the farmer will be directed by Gooding and Senator Ladd, Republican of North Dakota.

The bloc's first test of strength was due today when the senate reached a vote on the duty written into the bill on castor oil under the paragraph dealing with vegetable oils. Although general debate was expected from the Democratic side, Chairman Gooding predicted that the bloc's duty would be passed.

Gooding directed that the farmer would be "more protected than ever before in history" by enactment of the bloc's tariffs.

"The duties which the tariff bloc have recommended were decided upon only after careful study of the farmers' problems," said Gooding. "The American farmer, in many instances, has been forced to compete with cheap foreign labor at a time when his own crops were selling for scarcely more than cost and in some instances, such as cotton even below cost.

"The bloc's tariffs will eliminate one source of worry to the farmer—the sale of cheaper foreign farm products within our own borders. This will enable him first to get a reasonable price for his own products in competition with imported goods and, secondly, will give him an opportunity to get back on his feet. There is hardly any doubt but that we will demand sufficient votes to pass on our program."

Senator McCumber, Republican of North Dakota, in charge of the tariff bill, said today he would favor passage of the bloc's amendments. "The farm schedules, approved by the tariff bloc, were written into the bill as committee amendments and will have the support of the majority members of the committee on the floor," McCumber said.

SOLDIER BONUS PENNSYLVANIA ELECTION ISSUE

May Affect Chances of Senator Pepper in Primary

BEING MADE CAPITAL

Avowed Opposition of Pepper to Measure Campaign Propaganda.

Harrisburg, Pa., May 15.—To what extent the soldiers' bonus issue may affect the chances of U. S. Senator George Wharton Pepper being returned to his seat is one of the undetermined elements of the tangled political situation in Pennsylvania, which is stirring up almost as much controversy as the fight of Gifford Pinchot to capture the Republican gubernatorial nomination in the state primary tomorrow.

Pepper's avowed opposition to the soldiers' bonus is being used against him by Congressman William J. Burke, of Pittsburgh, who is making a frank appeal for the votes of Pennsylvania's ex-service men as a Republican candidate for the United States Senate.

Burke is also stressing the vote Pepper cast to help prevent the unseating of Senator Newberry, of Michigan, and as an ex-railroad worker, and union man, is bidding for the labor vote, while seeking at the same time to turn it against Pepper by charging him with being a "representative of big business and Wall Street."

Pepper is standing on the support he has given the policies of the Harding administration since his appointment as the successor of the late Senator Boies Penrose, and his friends predict that he will defeat Burke, although they concede that Burke will probably poll a big vote.

ALLISTER M'CORMICK AGAIN IN TROUBLE

Paris, May 15.—That the path of true love for young Allister McCormick, rich Chicago youth, is getting rougher, was revealed today when one of the intimate friends of his fiancée, Miss Mary Landon Baker, also of Chicago, revealed that Mary has threatened to break off the engagement, and marry someone else if she meets some one she likes better. Twice Mr. McCormick has been left "waiting at the church" but this is the first time that his beautiful young fiancée has announced her willingness to return the ring and wed another.

EXPRESS MESSENGER SHOTS TRAIN BANDIT

STILL STRIVE TO AVERT IRISH CIVIL WAR

Irish Peace Leaders

The leaders of the Irish Republican faction and the Irish Free State group have made many efforts to reach an agreement that will prevent conflict between the two armed forces.

Two Women And Girl Are Shot Dead In Ireland

Fourteen are Wounded in Wave of Violence in Belfast Over Week End—Agreement Believed Near Between Factions.

BELFAST, May 15.—Military and police patrols filled the principal thoroughfares of Belfast today as a result of the fresh wave of violence that swept the city during the week-end. Two women and a girl were shot dead and 14 persons wounded on Sunday. Nearly all the windows of the general postoffice were broken by bullets. The curfew has been reimposed to keep the streets clear at night.

LONDON, May 15.—With an agreement believed near between the hostile factions in the Irish free state, another effort will be undertaken at the end of his week to bring about a settlement between the Irish free state and Ulster, it was learned this afternoon. Both Michael Collins, of the Dublin government and Sir James Craig, premier of the Ulster government, are expected here for a conference with Colonial Secretary Winston Churchill, who will act as mediator.

British troops are still concentrating along the Ulster frontier, leading to a report that they were planning to attack the Irish free states. This report was vigorously denied by the foreign office. Foreign office officials declared that British troops would be maintained on the Ulster boundary only in the event of widespread border outbreaks.

DUBLIN, May 15.—There were indications today that the Irish peace committee which is trying to bring the Irish free state and republican factions together will be able to report an agreement to the Dail Eirann on Wednesday. The committee was in session during the night and did not adjourn until 3 o'clock this morning.

If peace is effected and Michael Collins and Eamonn DeValera reach an agreement on the electoral register, it is likely that the general election in Ireland will be held on June 15. Campaigning on both sides has been suspended during the life of the armistice.

SIX CRACKSMEN MAKE BIG HAUL IN CINCINNATI

H. & S. Pogue Company's Store Robbed of $25,000 Sunday Night

WATCHMEN BOUND

Yeggs Blow Two "Burglar Proof" Safes and Make Escape

Cincinnati, May 15.—Six expert cracksmen, working slowly and methodically, spent six hours in the one of the most exclusive department stores in Ohio. Sunday night, bound and gagged two aged watchmen, blew two "burglar proof" safes and escaped with $25,000 in cash.

The robbery was discovered at 1 o'clock this morning when Patrick Collins, one of the watchmen who had been bound to a chair with picture wire, reached a telephone and called the police. Police found more than $800 in small change scattered on the floor of the offices in which the safes were located. The watchmen told them that eight explosions of nitroglycerine had been necessary to open the safes.

The yeggs gained entrance by waving a letter in front of one of the doors at 6 o'clock Sunday night inducing Louis Majewsky, one of the watchmen, to open the door. A bag was popped over his head. Neither of the watchmen were able to catch a glimpse of the faces of the yeggs they said.

PART OF WASHINGTON ON DAYLIGHT SAVING

Washington, May 15. The national capital's new daylight saving scheme, unofficially designated as "rag time," went into effect this morning marked by great confusion because part of the city went to work an hour earlier than usual and the rest elected to adhere to the old schedule.

Under President Harding's executive order, thousands of government clerks were compelled to be at their desks at 8 o'clock. Some of them were, but others came trailing in with the excuse that the street car companies had failed to furnish enough cars to take care of the new early morning rush.

RUSSIA REJECTS ALLIED PLAN FOR CONFERENCE

HAGUE MEETING JUNE 15 TURNED DOWN BY SOVIET

Moscow Government Demands Representation at Proposed Parley.

WOULD STUDY ISSUE

Scheme Calls for Commission Representing the "Big Five" Powers

GENOA, May 15.—"If Russia refuses to meet us at the Hague we will have nothing more to do with the Russians," Premier Lloyd George announced this afternoon.

The British premier's statement was regarded as an indirect threat of allied isolation of Russia for the time being. Later on the powers would be at liberty to make individual agreements with Moscow.

Lloyd George was referring to the allied proposal for the appointment of a mixed commission at The Hague on June 15 to study the Russian problem in detail by taking evidence from Russian experts. This plan has been rejected earlier in the day by the Russians in a note which George Tchitcherine, head of the Russian delegation, hand to the Italians.

Germany, having a separate treaty with Russia, will not be allowed to participate in the meeting of The Hague.

Russian rejection of the commission proposal had been announced even before the allies had formally presented their plan to the Russian delegates.

Despite the initial attitude taken by Russia, the powers decided to invite the Russians to attend a meeting of the conference sub commission on Russian affairs tomorrow morning. If the meeting is held as planned France will be absent as the French have not approved either the allied memorandum delivered last Thursday night.

M. Barthou, head of the French delegation, told the powers that if Russia accepted the new proposal for a meeting at The Hague, he would immediately recommend its adoption by the French Government.

Replying to inquiries from the press correspondents, Premier Lloyd George revealed this afternoon that negotiations for separate agreements are now in progress between Russia and the following countries: Sweden, Czechoslovakia, Italy and Japan. These negotiations will not be arrested, the British premier said but the allies want to prevent a repetition of the affair at Bapallo, when Russia signed a separate treaty with Germany which came near breaking up the conference.

Genoa, May 15.—George Tchitcherine, head of the Russian delegation in the international economic conference, today handed a note to the Italians, stating that Russia could not accept the allied plan for a commission to study the Russian problem at The Hague unless Russia had representation upon the commission.

The proposal, rejected by the Russians, was the one put forward by the allies Sunday night. It calls for a meeting of the "big five"—England, France, Italy, Belgium and Japan—at the Hague on June 15, to appoint a commission to study the Russian issue from all angles. The United States has been invited to participate in the negotiations but no reply is expected for several days.

The Russians declare that if they only have a consultative voice in the commission (as now proposed) it would be "absolutely unacceptable." They declare further that they regard the injunction of the allies that Russia shall conclude no separate agreements with any nation pending the report of the committee "constitutes a hostile act amounting to deliberate isolation."

A demand that they be heard by the political sub-committee of the conference today to explain the position, in their note of Thursday night was made by the Russians.

A supreme crisis marked the opening of the sixth week of the conference with the prospect that the meeting will be adjourned at once. This latest crisis was precipitated by the fact that the Russians rejected the plan for a mixed commission even before the plan was officially communicated to them by the allies. Only painstaking restraint can bridge the new chasm and avoid dissolution.

The sub commission on Russian affairs (generally known as the political sub commission) met today to discuss and ratify the proposal for a meeting at The Hague. The plan for a meeting at The Hague is believed to have been Premier Lloyd George's trump card. The members of the sub commission found themselves in an embarrassing position. Final refusal to hear the Russians by the sub commission (this being the properly constituted body to discuss this question) might be construed as a denial of the principle of equality before the body. To admit the Russians would mean a severe come-down for France and also would open the gates to a flood of politics which might drag out the negotiations for weeks.

The invitation sent to the United States to participate in the meeting at The Hague is understood to have been suggested by France, as France had previously intimated that she would consent to re-enter the Russian discussion, only on condition the United States participated. The invitation was sent through Richard Washburn Child, American ambassador to Italy, who forwarded the communication through the usual diplomatic channels, without comment.

If the conference at The Hague can be arranged, a truce automatically would come into force during the three months or so that the mixed commission would be preparing its report on Russia. The commission would not visit Russia, but Russian experts and leaders in all branches of Russian activity would be called before the body as witnesses. The Russians, however, want to have a voice in the affairs of the commission.

London, May 15.—Downing Street officials expressed confidence today that the United States would consent to participate in the allied meeting at The Hague to appoint a mixed commission to study the Russian problem unless the proposal is knocked out by the attitude, taken by the Russians themselves at Genoa.

It is admitted that the British officials had no material information upon which to base his belief. But they pointed out that, in view of the attitude taken by America upon the reported agreement between the Royal-Dutch-Shell group and the Russian soviet government, "the United States would hardly find it possible to remain out."

Rumors are filtering in to Downing Street that Premier Lloyd George may resign upon his return from Genoa. The premier's adherents point out, however, that unless the Genoa conference collapses entirely, the premier will be in a position to go before the country in a general election basing his platform upon the Irish settlement and his policy at Genoa.

LEADER OF GANG SHOT BY UNKNOWN MAN WHILE IN BED

New York Scene of Another Attempted Murder On Monday.

New York, May 15.—Joseph Behan, 31, an ex-convict and called the successor of "Dinny" Meehan as leader of the "white hand" gang was shot and seriously wounded as he lay in bed beside his wife in their home in Warren Street, Brooklyn, today. Meehan was shot and killed under exactly similar circumstances.

Peter Behan, Joseph's brother, recently was found dead in the street, the victim of a fight. A policeman was tried for this killing and acquitted.

Behan today denied any knowledge of the identity of his assailant, adding that he would get well and "take care of it in his own way."

A bullet is lodged under his heart and physicians are not so certain that the gang leader will live to continue the underworld war which seems to surround him. Behan came home late, the police learned and retired partly dressed. His wife did not hear him come in, but was aroused by the shot and the sound of footsteps running down the hall. A revolver was found on the floor.

At Sing Sing, Behan was the star pitcher of the prison ball team.

XENIA REMAINS ON OLD TIME PENDING COMMISSION ACTION

The City Commission was expected to examine petitions filed asking for the repeal of the daylight saving ordinance, at a meeting scheduled for late Monday afternoon.

In the meantime Xenia continues to recognize Central standard time, and the time question has been the chief topic of conversation on the streets and in business houses, since announcement was made Saturday that the petitions had been filed.

The commission will decide whether the petitions which bore 501 names, has 411 bona fide signatures this number being the 15 per cent of the voters at the last election required by the charter. Whether the discovery of an irregularity in the petitions would invalidate all of them is a question, it is said. Although it was the opinion in some quarters that such would be the case, Mayor M. J. Hartley said Monday that he did not believe one irregularity would be sufficient to throw out the petitions.

"I am going to treat the petitions liberally," said Mayor Hartley, "and I don't think the petitions should be thrown out for technicalities. If the signatures appear to have been signed with intent of having them correct, I think they should count." Mayor Hartley admitted he had not seen the petitions yet.

City Solicitor J. A. Finney said Monday afternoon he was unable to say whether possible irregularities in the petition would disqualify just those which were incorrect or the entire petitions. Mr. Finney said that several questions would have a bearing on any decision made in such a case.

The offices of the Hoover & Allison Co., in the Steele Building went on daylight saving time, Monday, following a vote of employees to come to work earlier and be freed from their duties at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon. Monday, it was announced that The Xenia Foundry & Machine Company had gone on daylight saving time.

Executives of the R. A. Kelly Co. are considering whether to establish the new time in effect throughout its plant with the belief that such action will probably be taken, although officials were still undecided Monday afternoon. If factories swing into line with daylight saving or eastern time, it is believed that many business men will follow suit, and that stores and business houses will change their schedule to conform with the new time.

BAYLIFFS DEFEAT DAYTON 13 TO 1

The Bayliff Electric defeated the Dayton Roto Speeds at the Washington Street Park Sunday afternoon 13 to 1, the superb pitching of Cooper taking a big part in the victory.

Cooper permitted the visitors but three hits, while he contributed 16 strike outs and gave his support an easy day of it in the field. Cooper had the Indian sign on Brown, visiting short stop, who whiffed every trip in four attempts with the ash.

In the meantime the locals were seeking the efforts of Reynolds and Voltz to all corners of the diamond, and piling up runs in every inning except the second. Starkey, Ritter and Fuller were most successful with the ash, each putting three hits in five trips, including a triple by Fuller and a full circuit clout by Ritter who smoke one deep into left and ankled all the way around Fuller's long smash was into right field. The box score:

HAD TO LIVE ON TOAST AND MILK MOST OF TIME

Mrs. Nettie Phillips Says She Believes Tanlac Saved Her Life When It Rid Her of Stomach Trouble.

"I am the happiest woman in town since my recovery. I believe Tanlac saved my life," said Mrs. Nettie Phillips, of Mogadore, near Akron, Ohio.

"My stomach was so badly disordered for some years I had to live on toast and milk most of the time, because solid food caused me perfect agony. I had dizzy spells when black spots swam before my eyes and I dreaded to go to bed for I could not sleep. I was taking medicine all the time but kept getting worse.

"A few bottles of Tanlac have made me so I can eat anything without indigestion. I have a healthy color, sleep well, am free from my dizzy spells, and have gained several pounds. It is no more than right for me to recommend Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

A. L. TEAM DROPS GAME ON SUNDAY

The American Legion baseball team dropped a hardluck game to the fast Harshmanville Club at Harshmanville Sunday afternoon by a score of 7 to 8.

The Legion players scored first in the second, when they chased one run across the plate, and they added two more in the third. Bad luck however, camped on their trail, and a combination of hits and errors, enabled the Harshman club to attain the lead with four runs in their half of the third. Three more runs acquired in the seventh sewed up the contest.

Harshmanville is said to have one of the fastest teams in this section, with a professional outfield signed up, so that the locals outthit their opponents, getting 11 safe blows off the delivery of Haddock while the visitors bunched their seven hits in the third and seventh. Brown pitched a nice game for the Legion nine. Manager Paul Fuller of the Legion team is now issuing a challenge to any team in the city to play for the city championship. The lineups: Legion—Pratt, lf; Fuller, rf; Smith 2b; Milburn, ss; Day, 1b; Bocklet cf; Derrlek 2b; Brown, p; Randall, c; Harshmanville—Howard, 2b; Snyder 1b; Corry, lf; Ophers, 3b; Van Pelt, cf; Manley, rf; Mitchell, c; Green, ss; Haddock, p.

AN OLD POLITICAL TRICK TO GAIN PUBLICITY THAT IS PUZZLING THE PRESIDENT.

Conferring with the President has been for years one of the recognized pastimes at Washington. It is one of the sure-fire ways of getting into the limelight. Politicians are as dependent upon and as avid about publicity as actors. The occupant of the White House, whoever he may be, is more closely and continuously under scrutiny than any other person in the United States. No one can even approach him without coming into the steady white light that beats upon him. The seekers of publicity know this and take advantage of it. They attain a temporary notoriety and importance by creating the appearance of being in the Chief Magistrate's confidence; of giving him advice and coloring his mind. The spectacle is oftentimes pitiful when it is not comic.

The actual authentic transaction at one of these "conferences" which one has frequently witnessed is, more often than not, briefly this: The person who comes to confer is usually a petitioner in disguise. He greets the President fervidly, says something pleasant and banal by way of passing the time of day and then plunges in, "Mister President, will you please—" Within one minute of actual elapsed time Mr. Wilson used to say "No" and call it a day's work so far as that particular visitor was concerned. Mr. Harding is non-committal and promises to give the request careful consideration. It comes to the same thing in the end.

THE FLUSH OF PROSPERITY.

Stock prices lately have maintained their astonishing climb, with little variation, and "hundred million share days" have come to be the rule, as in boom times. The buyers seem convinced that times are going to be very good. And those buyers are not a few big speculators but many small ones. It is really the investing public that is bulging the market, though its optimism is evidently shared by the "big fellows."

Yet there is the big coal strike, with no solution in sight, and steel production already threatened by approaching fuel scarcity. There is also the mournful mix-up at Genoa presaging a possible continuance of economic confusion in Europe instead of industrial and political reconstruction there and a revival of our foreign market. There is the imminence of a costly army bonus, bound to be a strain on the treasury, however handled. There is the burden of taxation, oppressive at best. There is the probability of a tariff which many of the country's leading business men regard with apprehension, as tending to discourage exports.

All these factors are discounted. The public is in a buoyant mood. Business men, on the whole, are buoyant, too. Nearly everybody seems to feel that conditions are bound to be good; and accordingly, conditions are good, and will undoubtedly improve as expected.

Certain fundamental factors are certainly favorable, particularly the soundness of American finance, the easement of interest rates and ample supply of credit, the improvement of the farmer's position through higher crop prices and lower prices for his necessary purchases, the shortage of goods that must soon be made up by a renewed burst of industrial speed, the smaller cost of labor and materials and the increased efficiency of labor.

The good material factors at least balance the bad ones. The psychological factor is all to the good, and it is determining the path to prosperity.

PREHISTORIC HUNTING.

If Argentina were a dry country like the United States, nobody ever would have taken that plesiosaurus hunt very seriously. You never can tell what sort of prehistoric monster will be seen in a dry country under the stimulus of bootleg booze. But it comes to the same thing after all. The hunters are coming back from Patagonia without any plesiosaurus or glyptodon or megatherium or anything. They have seen no trace of the monster reported in those parts, and don't believe there ever was any monster.

It is too bad. Life relapses to the dull and prosaic again, as far as zoology is concerned. The remote past refuses to be linked up with the living present. There is no giant lizard of a million years ago to step out of his ancient swamps and add zest to our zoos and show what mankind was up against in his hairy prime. A missing link is still missing.

Extinct lizards may still be hunted, however, in the same old way that has given science all it knows about them. They will be found by unimaginative farmers digging wells and by city contractors opening gravel pits or excavating for the new Methodist Church.

There will be nothing found but gigantic bones, but scientists will take these fragments and piece out the skeletons and clothe them with make-believe flesh and hide and hair, and reconstruct the conditions in which they lived in those incredible days when our temperate zone was torrid, and man if he existed must have lived furtively, driven from cave to cave and faced on all sides by huge horrors.

There is enough imagination in that kind of hunting to satisfy any normal mind.

MOVIES TO HELP EXPORTS.

The American made motion picture is gaining new dignity as a recognized advertising medium. Screen dramas, produced solely for the purpose of entertaining have unexpectedly stimulated South American interest in clothing, furniture and motor cars made in the United States.

It is in recognition of this fact that the United States government and the National Association of Manufacturers now propose to produce movies which will tell the story of North American products. These pictures are to be distributed all over the world, wherever United States manufacturers hope to develop markets for their goods.

It is reported that the demand for these films already exists in most of the important countries of the world. Other nations want to know more about American products and their uses. So far foreign interest has been more actively expressed than the interest of business men in this country. But with a movie division established in the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, the interest of local industries is already quickening.

The enterprise is deserving of widespread support, and will no doubt receive it increasingly, as its possibilities and opportunities become more obvious.

SOMETHING THEY ALL RECOGNIZE

1902--Twenty Years Ago--1922

Mr. Charles Keible, the West Main Street grocer, returned last evening from Cincinnati, where he spent three or four days purchasing a summer stock of goods.

Mr. D. B. John who is employed in traveling for an Indianapolis buggy concern is spending ing a couple of days at his home in this city.

At a conference held last night it was finally decided to fix up the conflict which has been going on in the Board of Health for the past two or three weeks, and that the officers elected by the minority will retire and give way to the new men.

Letters to The Editor

Editor Gazette and Republican: Mrs. John Edelman, nee Kate Van Eaton, writes interestingly of a forest fire experience at Forest Park, Pa., a resort where she is spending the summer.

"My desire to see a forest fire has been gratified, and I hope now never to see another! The worst fire in years has swept this section of the country. We managed to save our buildings and about forty acres of woodland out of the seven hundred. It was a gorgeous sight. Although rather terrifying until we knew that the men had the back fire started safely."

"On Tuesday p. m. quite suddenly, a fire which had been burning unobserved in a valley two miles away, began to climb a hill in our direction and a wall of smoke seemed ready to fall forward on our place. The roar was like that of the ocean in a storm. It was coming on at the rate of a mile an hour and we thought for a while that the men couldn't get a 'back fire' started in time to save buildings, but fortunately the wind veered a little for a while and the fire swept east and before it started directly toward us again the 'back fire' was well under way."

"I made sandwiches and fed people in bunches for eighteen hours. Pioneering with a vengeance! No one in this section remembers so extensive and long continued a forest fire. The whole country for miles is black. Lots of farm buildings and even a few small villages were burned. We were not in any danger personally as we are located on the shore of an eighty (80) acre lake. For hours after dark the sky was illuminated three quarters of the way around the horizon. I climbed partway up the wind mill and could see fire, fire in almost every direction, our own fire, our back fire traveling out to meet it—the fire across the lake, climbing right up a hill and leaping along the top—a back fire in the valley starting out to waylay it, our own fire running on east, jumping the road and being back fired further on. To make a 'back fire,' men cut a path through the brush, wet the grass and leaves and set a fire off toward the fire that's coming. It takes quite a lot of men to guard it at first and keep the ground wet. We had only thirty men and boys here but they worked systematically and handled the situation well. Wednesday p. m. the rain came and the danger was over."

MYSTERY OF THE MANICURE

To some women, the process of acquiring perfectly manicured nails is a great mystery. No matter how carefully they try, they cannot bring their own fingertips to that state of pink perfection which is true of the woman with a good maid; or even of the woman who can take the time and money to have her nails "done" once or twice a week.

Yet the mystery of nice looking nails is very simple to solve. Nails must be treated gently and not over-manicured. I think that is the fault of the inexperienced woman—she is so afraid she isn't doing enough to her nails, that she overdoes them.

The nails must be filed to a pointed oval shape first, using a long, flexible, steel file. Then the fingertips must be soaked for a few minutes in a bowl of warm soapy water, preferably containing a little lemon to bleach off stains. Then the nails are cleaned and smoothed at the ends with emery board and gone over with a pair of good manicure scissors so all the jagged, loose bits of skin are cut off.

Cream is rubbed in then and the cuticle pushed back with an orange wood stick. This leaves them ready for the first polishing with polishing powder. When this is washed off a final polish is given with the palm of the hand, or a clean buffer.

The "mystery" lies only in shaping the nails nicely with the file and in making the cuticle smooth around the edges. Cream rubbed into them keeps QUEERED.

Long years ago G. Grimshaw Grimes was in the county jail; he was accused of swiping dimes and other kinds of kale. Of course his spirit was distressed, as yours or mine would be, until the guilty one confessed, and Grimshaw Grimes went free. It was an error of the law that sent him to a cell, where he was fed on bread and slaw and water from the well. And he has led a useful life since that dark day of yore, providing nobly for his wife and children twenty-four. And now and then, to serve the state, or prestige gain, mayhap, he comes forth as a candidate for some small public snap. And always at the crucial hour when roor-backs most prevail, up comes the story, dark and dour, that he was once in jail. In vain he rises to explain his martyrdom of old; the voters listen with disdain, and then they knock him cold. And so he teeters through the town a sad and weary scout; there is a spot in his renown and he can't get it out. He's washed the spot with gasoline, he's lathered it with soap, but in campaigns its always seen, and he's abandoned hope. This world of ours is most unfair and insolent at times and none can say it's acted square with poor old Grimshaw Grimes. A blemished record is a frost that makes the world seem stale; so let us all, whate'er the cost, avoid the county jail.

Today's Talk

by George Matthew Adams

I have an idea that if Nancy Hanks, the mother of Lincoln, were alive and should come into the ordinary modern store, she wouldn't get the best of attention.

The uncouth appearance and perhaps bent figure might cause some clerks to smile and to render only a passing service, as contrasted with the service rendered some fashionable shown woman.

For what clerk could guess that here was the mother of the greatest figure of modern times? But how much it would mean to wait upon such a one.

There is something very beautifully noble about the consideration shown to the bent, frail, calico women of the world.

What a plain, simple woman Madame Currie is. Such a fine, wonderful face. Yet no one would suspect her to be one of the great scientists in the world just to meet her on the street.

If you are a clerk in a store, bear this in mind. You may be rendering service to one of the greatest of the earth. Treat the unpretentious ones with consideration, graciousness and kindness.

I often encounter—after the business day is over—the woman who cleans my office and scrubs the floors. She is a very wonderful woman to me. She has five children and I have never heard her complain and I have never met her but what her face has been wreathed in smiles. Perhaps one of her little ones shall rise to leadership in the world some day and put to shame those who once hired her for so menial labor at such small pay.

The calico women! I never see the type but what I think of my own mother—who dressed so plainly but whose heart was gold of the finest clear through, her soul always conscious of the needs of other people.

How very wonderful is consideration and kindness, anyway—to whom ever it is rendered.

MRS. N. B. REYNOLDS CALLED BY DEATH EARLY BY SUNDAY

A life of activity and service came to a close with the death of Mrs. Nanette B. Reynolds, wife of Dr. Eber Reynolds, which occurred Sunday morning at two-thirty o'clock, at the McClellan Hospital, where Mrs. Reynolds had been a patient, following an illness of several weeks.

Mrs. Reynolds had suffered from a heavy cold, early in the spring, and had never fully recovered from its effects, which resulted in a complication of ailments. Members of her family held hope for her recovery until a short time before her death, which was a shock to her many friends and relatives.

Mrs. Reynolds was born April 22, 1859, in the Union neighborhood, south of Xenia, the daughter of the late George Washington, and Jane Brown Jones. Her marriage to Dr. Reynolds took place, June 19, 1883.

To her were born three children who with their father, survive, Miss Louise Reynolds, at home, Dr. Eber J. Reynolds, of this city, and Arthur J. Reynolds, at home. Four sisters, and one brother also survive, Mrs. Margaret Frank, of Oakland, California; Mrs. Harry Merrick, of Seattle, Washington; Mrs. Jerome Jones, of Kansas; and Mrs. Sarah E. Bacon, of Xenia, and Frank Jones of Waynesville, Ohio. One sister, Mrs. Kate Cherry, of Xenia, and two brothers, C. B. Jones, of Los Angeles, California, and George Jones, preceded Mrs. Reynolds in death.

Outstanding among her many activities, was Mrs. Reynolds' undivided attention to the philanthropic and social work of the city. Mrs. Reynolds served for twenty years as president of the Ladies' Aid Society, of the Presbyterian Church, of which she was a member and also led the work in other lines, carrying a large part of the burden. She served in many capacities in that church. Also marked was her patriotism, illustrated by her work as chairman of the Woman's Board, of the Liberty Loan Campaign, during the war. Her large work in the temperance circles of the city, included her membership in the W. C. T. U., and other associated organizations.

Mrs. Reynolds was for three years Executive Secretary of the Social Service League, where she served untiringly for the betterment of the social welfare work in the city. In connection with this work Mrs. Reynolds was a member of the State Board of Charities, and other affiliated organizations.

Funeral services will be conducted Tuesday afternoon at two thirty o'clock at the home on East Church street, with interment at Woodland Cemetery. Friends desiring to view the remains may call at the house after seven o'clock Monday evening.

Styles BY LENORE

Simplicity and youthfulness of line mark this gown of crepe Romaine designed by a prominent dressmaker for the mother of the bride at a recent wedding.

In color it is that new deep cream shade which is neither beige nor yellow yet has a suggestion of each. In fact, there is just a tinge of pink in it which is exceedingly flattering to the skin.

The bodice is relieved by an openwork border of self-color silk embroidery blended with gold thread, which also effects the joining of the softly clinging sleeves, and the shapely, overlapping tunics add much grace and dignity to the general effect.

"TUT" JACKSON THREATENS TO QUIT SQUARED RING

Washington C. H., May 14—"Tut" Jackson of this city, he of the 40 odd knockouts to his credit in the squared circle has threatened to quit the fistic game just at a point when his star is growing brighter and brighter each day. It is all because of the alleged shadiness of the conduct of his manager, Billy Palmer, accused of trying to "fix" the most recent bout wherein Jack Geyer, of Columbus, went the way of his predecessors before the terrific punches of "Tut" Jackson says he's not afraid to go out and work by the day and refuses to give up Palmer's management although the latter says he will tear up existing contracts between himself and Jackson so that the latter will be unhampered.

The Columbus boxing commissioner has barred Palmer because of the Geyer deal and has asked other commissions in Ohio to follow its lead. Geyer made a speech before the bout telling of the alleged demand of Palmer that he "lay down." Palmer in retaliation held up Geyer's share of the purse but this was settled Tuesday and Geyer received approximately $600 for the lacing he received at Jackson's hands.

They Overlooked the Diamonds

HERE is a modern flippancy to the effect that, "What you don't know won't hurt you." It is also a fallacy. For instance:

The farmers of Kimberley were a disgusted, disheartened lot. They said the soil was too rocky to earn them a living. Some of them left. Others died in poverty.

And all the time their children were playing with diamonds.

But the farmers didn't know. They thought the priceless gems were pebbles.

Don't be like those Kimberley farmers. Know!

Don't seek opportunity in some distant place and overlook the diamonds that are daily within your grasp. Know!

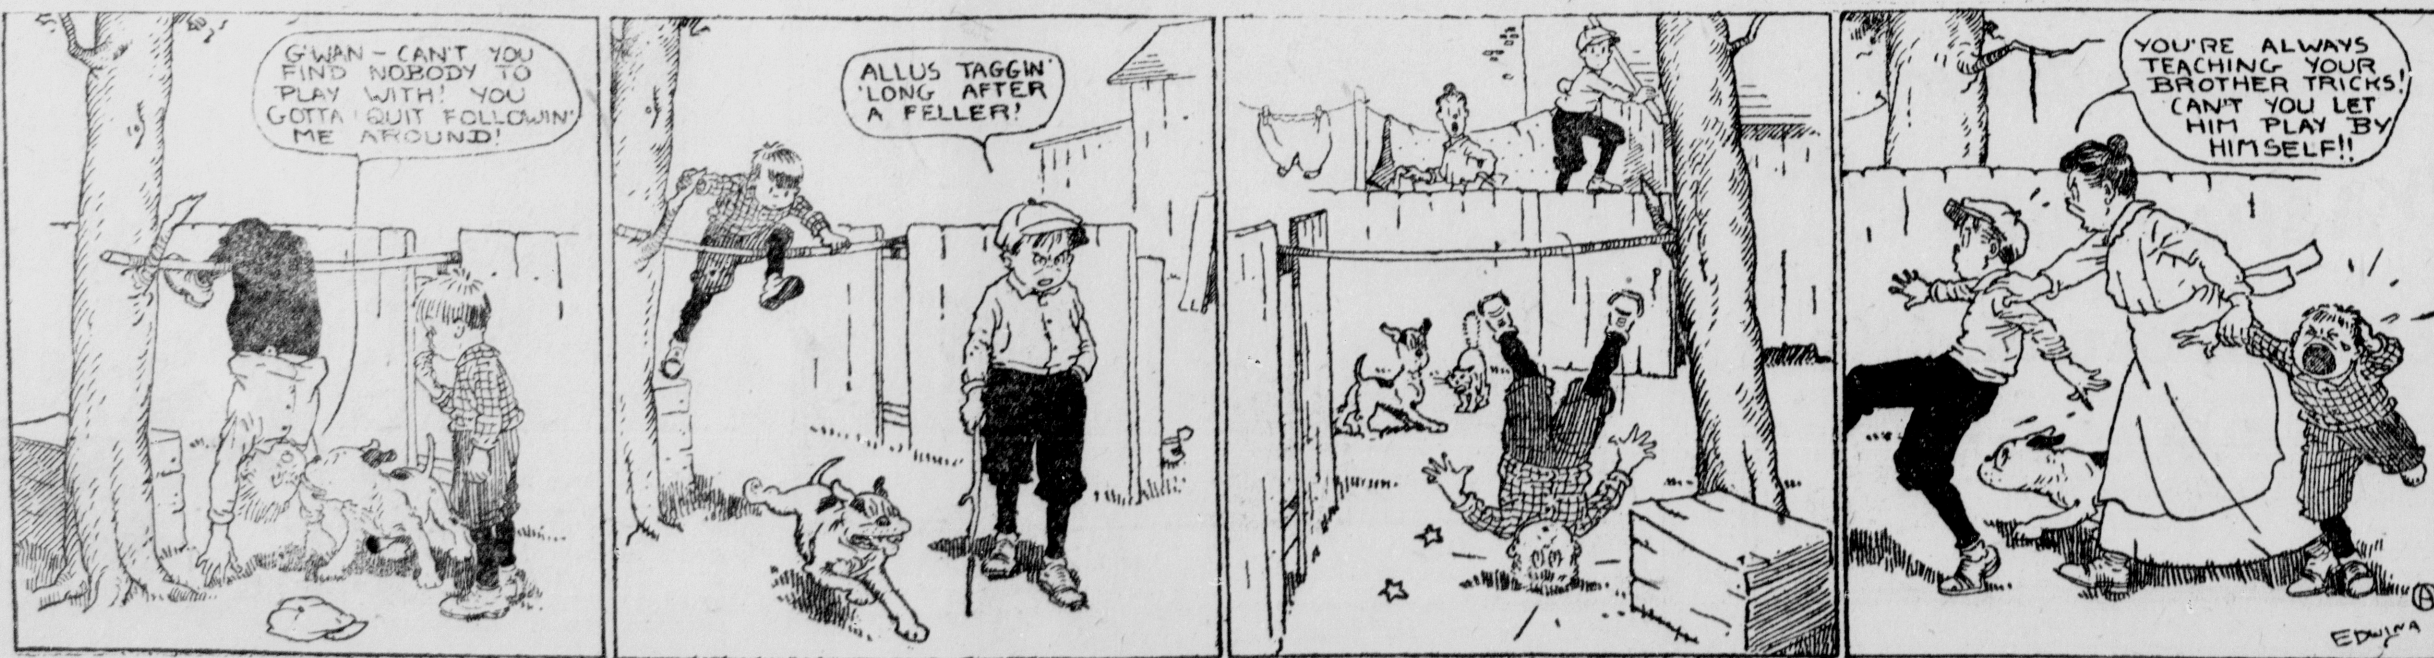

Advertising is a mine of opportunity. It tells of values you wouldn't know about if it were not there to guide you.

The secret of economical buying is information. The man or woman who is best informed is the one who buys to best advantage.

ATHLETICS DEFEAT CENTERVILLE NINE

With Skelly and Davis bearing the brunt of the hitting, but taking advantage of their opponents' errors the South Side Athletics defeated Centerville Sunday 13 to 7.

While Regan was holding the Centerville hurlers to but five hits his teammates were having a difficult time in solving the delivering of Anthony with the exception of Skelly and Davis, who hit safely every trip to the plate. Eight errors piled up by Centerville also helped to give the locals the long end of the count.

The play of the South Side team was featured by two double plays which nipped off runners on the paths. Both were maneuvered by Leahy to Holland to Skelly on in field rollers. Skelly, in four trips to the rhomboid, garnered two doubles and two singles, while Davis collected a triple, two doubles and one single, in the same number of efforts.

Regan pitched nicely, permitting but five safeties, and striking out 16 opposing batsmen. Although his offerings were no puzzle to Skelly and Davis, Anthony also pitched a nice game, whiffing 11, and permitting nine hits. The lineup:

Centerville—Sidenstricker, c.;

Wood, 2b.; Underwood, rf.; Darby cf.; Johnson, 3b.; Espey lb.; Shaw, cf.; Williamson, ss.; Anthony, p. Substitutions—Turner for Johnson.

THIRTY FOUR TO RECEIVE DEGREES AT WILMINGTON

Wilmington, May 15—Thirty four students will receive degrees from Wilmington College this year, it is announced. Plans are now being made for the Commencement Week activities. There are 20 students now actively engaged in college and the remaining number of students who have previously been granted the necessary number of credits for graduation and will receive their degrees on Commencement Day, which will be June 9.

WILL OPEN STUDIO IN DAYTON. LOCAL MAN IS INTERESTED

The Behringer-Clevenger Co., of Dayton, interior decorators of which Ralph S. Clevenger, former Xenian, and son of L. F. Clevenger, of this city, is a partner, will open a new studio in Dayton soon.

The company of which Ralph H. Behringer is the other partner, has acquired the old Harris homestead, 29, East First Street, a Dayton landmark, built 90 years ago by John W. Harris and will convert the property into a large studio. There will be ample room for display purposes, for the upholstering department, signing and drafting rooms, work rooms, painting and decorating and other activities of the business.

The Behringer-Clevenger Co. has been in business two years. Previously to that Mr. Clevenger was associated with A. Schachne, interior decorator in Dayton.

BUSINESS REVIVAL PROCEEDS AT PACE SETTING NEW MARK

Cleveland, May 15.—Business revival is proceeding at a pace never before equalled after any previous period of depression, says the Cleveland Trust Company in its mid-month business bulletin for May.

Evidence of this fact is found in the new high record for building construction; the exceptionally rapid upturn in iron and steel production; the rapid advance of securities, since last August and the unexpected and vigorous comeback of the automobile industry.

Notwithstanding all these indications the recovery is so far from being self-evident that there is much discussion in business and banking circles as to whether any durable progress toward better conditions is really being made, says the bank. It continues:

"What nearly all, who discuss the matter fail to realize is that, the recoveries after previous periods of business stagnation undoubtedly seemed at the time even slower, more spotty and more gravely threatened with relapse than this one does now."

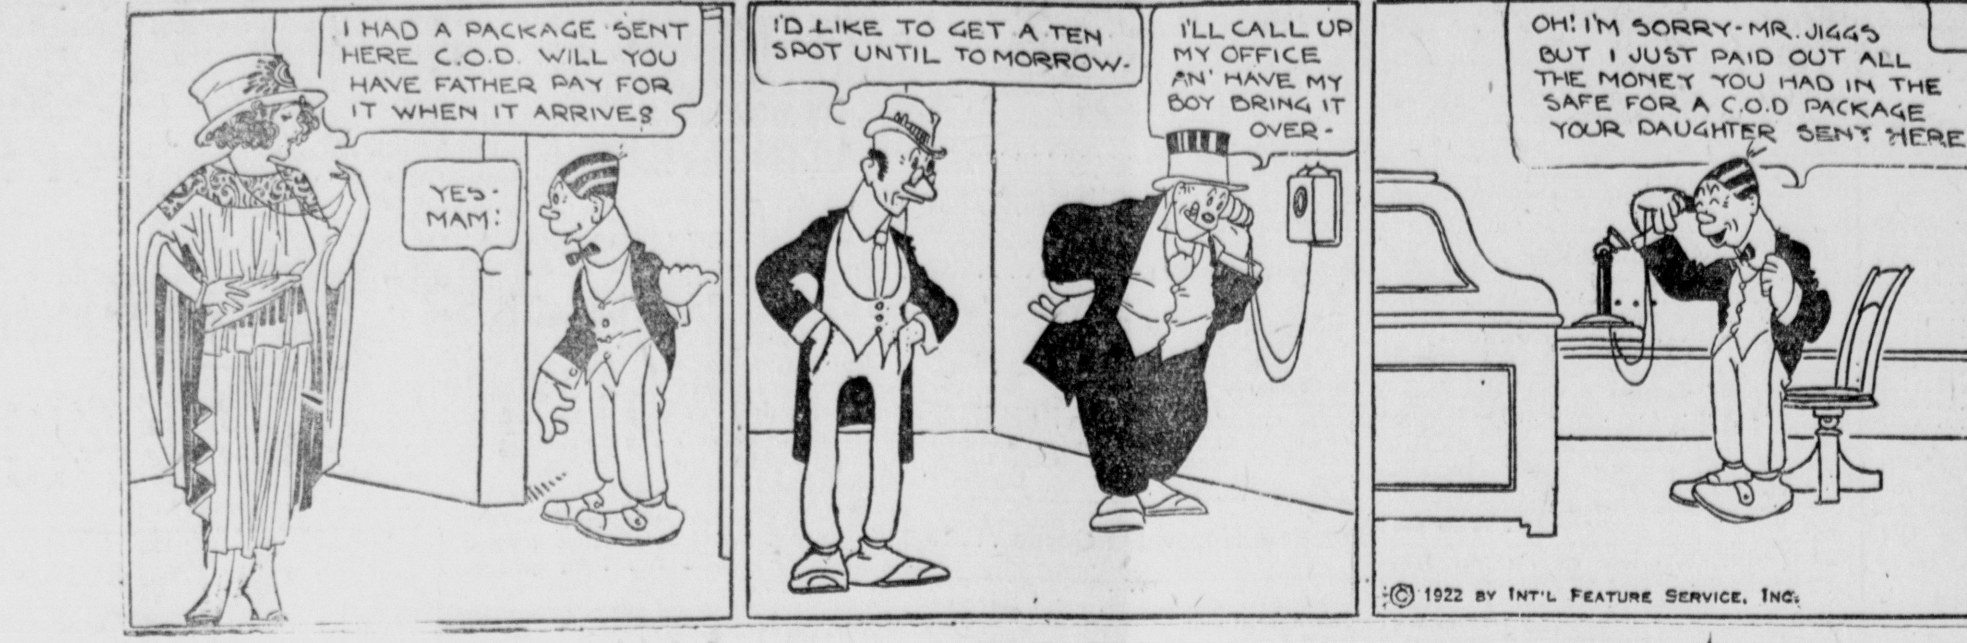

"The evidences that business is recovering becomes truly impressive when they are compared with the corresponding records made after former depressions in earlier years. New building construction undertaken during the first quarter of 1922, constitutes a new high record. Its total in twenty leading cities is more than three times as much as the average for the corresponding months in the past twenty years."

"Automobile manufacturing has come back with vigor not anticipated even by the most enthusiastic men in this most optimistic of industries. I am probable that, the completed records for April will show that more cars and trucks were produced than in any former month in the history of the industry. It is now clear that the total production for the year will be largely in excess of that for last year."

"In iron and steel output increasing figures continue to be recorded. The low point for pig iron production was reached last July, or eight months ago. The increase in monthly production since then has been 1386 per cent. In nearly 60 years this, have elapsed since the civil war this record has been equalled only once. That was following the panic of 1893 when resumption of iron output was exceptionally prompt. At no other corresponding period has the upturn even approached this one in rapidity. This is important, for increasing pig iron production is an unfailing symptom of growing activity in general manufacturing."

"In some ways the effect of the coal strike on the steel industry seems so far to have been beneficial. It has stimulated buying and helped to lift prices from unprofitable levels. The average rate of operation for leading steel mills is about 75 per cent of capacity. Conservative interests in the industry are exerting their influence against the erection of a price structure that might discourage the developing revival.

"Coal production in the country is running at the rate of about 4,000,000 tons weekly, or nearly 50 per cent of the estimated rate of consumption of slightly above 8,000,000 tons. This supply, together with stocks in storage, has prevented the development of an acute coal shortage as yet.

"In this city the construction of new building has been little affected by the boom conditions that have been spreading across the rest of the country. During April the value of the permits granted was less than $2,500,000. This was the smallest figure in April since the war year of 1918. Nearly all of the money being expended in Cleveland for new construction is going into the erection of homes but even so the number of families provided for is relatively small.

On the stock exchange the prices of industrial securities have been advancing since last August. With the exception of the great bull market of 1919 standard stocks have never moved forward as far in the first eight months after the upturn as they have this time, in the past quarter of a century."

WILL TEACH SCIENCE AT CEDARVILLE COLLEGE SOON

Miss Florence Somers has been added to the faculty of Cedarville College, succeeding the Rev. R. S. McElhinney, who has resigned.

Miss Somers graduated from Cedarville College in 1917 with the degree A. B. cum laude. She has taught in Caesar Creek and Cedarville High Schools and will have charge of the department of education for the training of teachers and of advanced mathematics at the college.

Prof. M. L. Frazer who is at present teaching in the high school at Kenmore, Ohio, has been added to the college faculty to take the place of Miss Flory, who resigned. He is a graduate of Wittenberg class of 1913, with the degree B. S. He is a science teacher.

GAME PRESERVE WILL BE SET ASIDE IN CLINTON

Wilmington, May 14.—At a meeting of the Clinton County Fish and Game Association Perry McKenzie reported that he had succeeded in getting enough farmers to sign an agreement to provide 1,200 acres for a game preserve in Clark Township.

This is considered the largest step yet taken in the protection of game in the county and Mr. McKenzie is being congratulated and commended for his efforts along this line.

Under this agreement, it is understood, that the farmers are to retain the use of their land, yet it is to be restocked with fish and game then placed under state protection. No hunting will be allowed on the preserve for a certain period of time according to the customary rules in the setting aside of a game preserve.

SERVING SWEETBREADS FOR DINNER

Sweetbreads make an ideal meat dish on the dinner table at this season of the year. The following menus are worth trying:

Fried Sweetbreads
Baked Potatoes
Asparagus
Coffee
Sago Pudding

Fried Sweetbreads. Put two pounds of sweetbreads in cold water as soon as you receive them from the butcher. Wash them well, removing the pipes and membranes, and cook them in boiling salted water to cover, for 20 minutes, adding one tablespoon of lemon juice to this water. Remove from fire, drain, and plunge them in cold water. Drain again and roll them in fine bread crumbs, in raw egg, then in bread crumbs again. Fry them in butter and serve hot.

Sago Pudding (Contributed by A. S.). "Heat one pint of sweet milk with one and one half tablespoons of sago, keep stirring constantly as the sago is apt to lump; add sugar to taste (about two tablespoonsful) and simmer until the sago is clear. Then beat the yolk of one egg until light, adding to it about one tablespoon of cold water, and stir this quickly into the hot sago mixture. Beat the egg white stiff, adding to it two tablespoons of sugar, and fold this into the pudding after you have removed it from the fire. Also stir in one teaspoon of vanilla."

Creamed Sweetbreads
Boiled Potatoes. Peas
Coffee
Apple Fritters

Creamed Sweetbreads: Prepare the sweetbreads as just described above, and when boiled for 20 minutes cut them into small individual casseroles, or ramekins, with a cream sauce made by heating one and one-half pints of milk to the boiling point and thickening it with two tablespoons of flour mixed to a paste with a butter the size of an egg and salt to season well. The sweetbreads should be barely covered by this cream sauce, and buttered bread crumbs are then sprinkled on top of each little dish. Bake in a hot oven for 25 minutes, and serve at once.

Apple Fritters: Warm one cup of sweet milk and add to it the yolks of two eggs, well beaten; two teaspoons of granulated sugar, a pinch of salt, two cups of flour with which two teaspoons of baking powder have been sifted, and the two egg-whites beaten stiffly. Last, add one cupful of thin slices of sour apples. Drop this batter by spoonfuls into deep, hot fat. When a golden brown, lift out the fritter and drain. Serve them with maple sirup. (Half this amount is enough to serve a small family.)

Tomorrow—Answered Letters.

FOUR DANCING FEET

BY JANE PHELPS

GERTIE SACRIFICE HER NEW CLOTHES

Chapter 44

Virtue may be its own reward, doubtless often is, but it is sometimes hard for those who practice it. Gertie was shabby, undeniably shabby as far as street clothes went. She had longed for a new dress and coat before Tom Norris came—if he came, which she doubted at times. But neither to her mother or Tim did she say one word about disappointment; and it was with a smile she gave her hard earned money to the doctor, the druggist, and others so that Tim might not only get well, but that he should have such good treatment; he would not be lame.

Almost the first thing Tim had said after his leg was set, questioned future lameness:

"Will I be like Pete Dooley, Ma?" Little Pete had broken his leg about a year before, and because of lack of proper attention would always be lame.

"No, dearie, you won't be lame at all the doctor says. He says you have been taken good care of and you won't even limp."

"That's bully! I was afraid I'd be like Pete."

Mrs. Cummings repeated this conversation to Gertie.

"It's all you, dearie, all your money that's keepin' him from being lame."

"It would break my heart if Tim should be lame," was all Gertie said, but she thought: how much more important he is than a dress and a coat—dear, little, gay Tim, the life of the household, the only boy.

Naturally a boy of his age fretted at the confinement. So many a dime and quarter went for little things with which he could amuse himself while lying in bed. This, added to the other bills, kept the entire family unable to do anything but live. Mrs. Cummings' laundry work had fallen off with the hard times, but had it not she would have been obliged to give some of it up because of the time it took to care for the little invalid. Gertie curtailed her morning rest and Jennie helped all she could out of school; she was teaching Tim so he would be able to pass his examinations for the next grade which would be taken about the time the doctor told them he would get out. Take it all in all it was a busy household, a self-denying one.

Lilly was sympathetic with Tim but found fault with Gertie because she denied herself clothes.

"You'll never get a beau if you don't fix yourself up," she told her. "You look all right dancing, but just think how you look in the street! It ain't fair for you to go without everything for the rest of them. I see Jennie's got a new dress."

"It don't make any difference about me, as long as I look all right at Fagin's," Gertie replied. Not even to Lilly would she confess her longing to look nice for Tom Norris. "But Jennie's in school, and some of the girls aren't nice to her if she looks too shabby. Her dress was cheap. When she's a teacher she will help out a lot."

"Well, all I can say is you're a goose, Gertie. Jennie's got education enough. She ought to be helping now. I feel like telling her so every time I see her playing the lady while you work."

"Don't you ever dare!" Gertie blazed forth. "I'll never speak to you again if you do. She's always feeling bad because she can't help, and it might make her give up the idea of wanting to be a teacher if anyone said anything like that to her. Remember—don't you dare!"

"Oh, well, I won't. But it don't change my mind any. Ma and me was talking about it the other night. Ma said that now Tim was hurt Jennie ought to go to work."

"You're mother don't know anything about it! I earn enough to keep her in school and she is going to stay there. She's only got about three years more before she can take the Regents. Then she can teach."

"Three years! And you'll be an old maid by that time!"

"Not a very old one, Lilly. And I expect to be one always. The kind of a fellow I want to marry: wouldn't want me."

"You're too high and mighty; One would think you expected a Prince or something, a millionaire perhaps. Remember I told you I'd steal George. Murphy if you didn't want him. He's awful nice."

"All right, Lilly—but you remember too what I told you. Don't try to work George, or you'll lose him."
